

2010: The European Year Against Poverty Implications and opportunities for Skills for Life practitioners

Monday 22 February 2010

CAN Mezzanine, 32 - 36 Loman Street, Southwark, London SE1 0EE

Background

Poverty is often associated with developing countries, where a lack of food and clean water can often be a daily challenge. Europe is also affected by poverty and social exclusion. It may not be as severe, but is nonetheless unacceptable. Poverty and exclusion of one individual amounts to the poverty of society as a whole. Europe can only be strong if each individual's potential is realised.

There is no miracle solution to put an end to poverty and social exclusion. However, a large number of non-governmental organisations in the UK will be doing what they can to lend their weight. NIACE is one of those and feels that the time is ripe to renew the sector's commitment to solidarity, social justice and greater inclusion. The links between learning and social exclusion are strong.

This event brings together the key themes of this agenda, with findings from the NIACE Inquiry into the Future of Lifelong Learning. The Inquiry also published two key papers on the impact of poverty on lifelong learning. There have been strong links made between people's literacy, language and numeracy and future life chances. This event is for Skills for Life practitioners who would like to find out more about the links between social justice and inclusion and the impact that Skills for Life learning can have on learners' life opportunities.

Regional Achievement Dialogue (RAD)

A Regional Achievement Dialogue event is an opportunity for those working across the post-16 sector, supporting literacy, language and numeracy development, to come together and engage in a dialogue. The themes of these events are often linked to emergent policies, practices and research that are likely to influence our work. Delegates attending these events are encouraged to participate in a dialogue through a range of activities and workshops. As an outcome, our dialogue is then shared with the Department for Business, Innovation and Skills (BIS). This allows the Department to be aware of how policies are being operationalised - identify the good practice of the field and to hear when the implementation presents challenges for us as professionals but, more importantly, for the learner with whom we work.

NIACE, the National Institute of Adult Continuing Education, was founded in 1921. The National Institute seeks to secure an education system responsive to the diversity of adults' needs and aspirations as learners, and in particular to those who benefited least from initial education. It is our belief that a system fit for adults of all ages and in all their complexity will work better for all learners.

The National Institute is active in many areas - in research, development, publishing, seminars, conferences and training courses, and has an active individual membership.

NIACE is a company limited by guarantee.
